

THE cafe glowed with neon lights. Harry wondered if Percy would need help counting out the change, but he seemed more at ease in the Muggle world than Harry had ever been.

“It started off as penitence,” Percy informed him. “But I came to like it.”