

“WOULDN’t it make more sense to carry a bag? It must really get on your nerves, all those bottles clinking about –”

“Whatever,” said Squall, laboriously extracting the fifth hipotion from somewhere around the vicinity of his knee.